Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

Have we come to a turn in the lane? We think so. A good many others, some of them in very high places, believe that the United Nations have turned a corner. They turned the corner when a U. S. fleet with adequate air power met in Coral Sea, a Jap fleet. At this writing it is guessed in Australia and elsewhere that the U. S. eagles are still pursuing Jap ensignia hither and yon. Not that there is not a world of work and fighting still to do, but at any rate the Japs took one mighty beating, according to the news despatches.

On the Russiai front that much heralded spring offensive has yet to be launched by the Huns. What is holding it up? Well it may be that the air front in the west, or second front, if one prefers, that the British and some American airmen have opened, may be keeping too many German planes there, needed to insure the success of another surge into Russia. We doubt if Hitler, for all his genius in diabolic treachery and double dealing for a moment ever sees the same picture that his generals do on the Russian front. The loss of nearly two million veterans on the Russian front, reported Sunday by Winston Churchill, during the campaign to date, is embarrassing to the Prussian generals, who are good workmen only when they have the tools. But we doubt if the full impact of that loss has yet reached Hitler. It probably will not until he supplies the gaps in the ranks with young boys of high school age. Then even he, will note a difference.

The recent battle over a convoy in the arctic sea, in which 90 per cent of the convoy continued on its course with supplies for Russia is probably a fair test of German naval strength in such tasks. For no one has yet accused the Huns of coming into battle with too little, and too late. Ten percent is a high interest rate to pay, but fortunately the United Nations can afford it. And since the Russians are fighting the greatest battle in all history, their allies must provide every aid possible. What the Russian peace objectives may be is something on which consideration must be postponed. It is a bridge to cross when we come to it.

Thus far there is no hint of land invasion of Europe on the west. Churchill in his Sunday talk of course, was careful to give no hint. But still there is a sizeable U. S. army in Northern Ireland, and probably growing. Yes, we think there will be a western front just about the time Hitler is throwing his utmost resources into the Russian two-thousand mile battle. Perhaps, Hitler, too, thinks so. That may be another reason why there is no great concentration of forces as yet in any one area along that long eastern front. If Churchill's report is correct, that there is no such gathering of German forces, it is another indication that the United Nations have turned a corner.

One cannot yet appraise the recent Chinese entrapment of Japs in Burma. It may have wide significance. But this much can be said, it is a notable victory in itself. Whether the Chinese can continue the offensive thus gained is something for time to prove.

As a matter of fact most of us can do with a modicum of good news such as we have received in the past week. Americans, since Pearl Harbor, have had to suffer much humiliation. Our losses have been heavy, especially at Pearl Harbor and in the Phillipines. We are enduring major losses in the submarine warfare on he Atlantic coast and more recently in the Gulf of Mexico. We still face the probability of bombing attacks on our Pacific sea board. More so now since our army bombers visited Japanese cities. If for no other reason we may expect such attacks as a matter of Jap face recovery —the delicate Jap face. Yet, the clouds are lifting a little. The long lane begins to turn. Let us not be impatient. For we do not wish to spend the lives of our boys as prodigally as do the dictator nations. Careful preparation is life insurance in war. That preparation we must leave in good faith to our naval, air and army leaders.

THEO. KOHLER, JR. FILES CANDIDACY FOR CO. OFFICE

Theo. A. (Ted) Kohler, Jr., one of the most popular young men of Nevada County, has tossed his hat into the political ring with the announcement he will be a candidate for public administrator at the August primary election.

Kohler, member of a pioneer Nevada City-Grass Valley family, needs no introduction to most of the voters of the county. The popular young man, at present employed by the Idaho-Maryland Mines Corporation in its accounting department, seeks the office on the belief the younger generation should take a more active part in the political life of the county and hopes to merit the support of the voters on that basis as well as his qualifications for the position.

The public administrator candidate attended the Grass Valley Grammar and High Schools. He received a business education at Mt. St. Mary's Academy in Grass Valley.

For several years Kohler was connected with the advertising staff of the San Francisco Chronicle, returning to Grass Valley two years ago to make his future home. Shortly after his return to Nevada County Kohler obtained a position in the office at the Idaho-Maryland Mine.

Kohler is well known in fraternal circles. He is a past master of the Grass Valley DeMolay Chapter and at present holds the position of third vice president in Quartz Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West. He also is a member of the Grass Valley Elks Lodge.

The candidate is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Theo. A. Kohler, Sr., of 120 South Church Street, Grass Valley.

Kohler promises to conduct the office of public administrator in a capable manner if elected and his many friends believe his candidacy is deserving of support.

Salvage Drive, Cleanup Week Starts Tuesday

Uncertain weather caused the postponement until next week of Nevada City's Clean-up campaign.

Mayor Benjamin Hall announces the schedule planned for gathering salvagable material this week will be followed out starting next Tuesday.

Local home owners are asked by the local civilian defense council to clean up their houses, basements, attics and garages and to save all waste which may be essential for the war effort.

This includes metals of all kinds, old rubber, magazines and newspapers. The home owners are asked to pile the salvagable articles and materials in neat bundles so they can be handled easily by the workers who will gather them.

E. J. N. Ott is general chairman of the cleanup drive committee.

The following schedule for gathering the salvagable articles has been adopted:

Tuesday May 19—Prospect Hill district, bounded by Sacramento, Boulder Streets and Gold Run.

Wednesday, May 20—Piety Hill district, bounded by Gold Run and south side of Deer Creek.

Thursday, May 21—Nevada Street and East Broad Street.

Friday, May 22.—Lost Hill, East Broad Street to the Plaza and north side of Deer Creek.

Rotarians Hear Need Of Support To Chinese Bowl Of Rice Ball

Nevada City Rotary Club members today were given a graphic picture why all Americans should support the benefit Chinese "Bowl of Rice" Ball, which will be held on June 6th at the Memorial Hall in Grass Valley.

Mrs. Wanda Lageson, who is chairman of the "Bowl of Rice" committee in Nevada City, told the local Rotarians the need for support of the benefit ball.

In presenting facts about the suffering of the Chinese people, Mrs. Lageson said:

"After a bombing raid, the wounded are brought in to be operated upon with anesthetics. The need for anesthetics is much greater than the supply. Little children are very brave about it. They know there is not enough to go around. They grit their teeth and bear it. Very often they faint. Many of them die of shock. They could be saved if they had ether. Let us not comfort ourselves by thinking the Chinese do not feel pain as we do. They are made of flesh and bone, as we are.

"Since the war started about fifty million Chinese have been made homeless. Some have found work and some have been cared for by friends or relatives but over half of them are still homeless, sleeping in the streets huddled together to keep warm. They become so weakened from exposure and hunger that they are easily taken by typhoid and cholera.

"Hospitals and medical supplies are very scarce. Often none are available. Young Chinese doctors and nurses even though they have been trained, lack medical equipment. Iodine and gauze are needed badly. Thousands die from gangrene and lockjaw.

"We must not let ourselves think there are so many Chinese that what little we can give would be useless. In China a dollar buys more for a human being than it does any place in the world. One dollar will buy ether for fifteen operations. Ten dollars will save fifteen people from lockjaw. Twenty dollars will buy food, clothes and shelter for one refugee for a year.

"The Chinese people are doing all they can do for themselves in this desperate situation. Food is being distributed to the children and the homeless. They are now setting up small factories to make drugs they lack. But China cannot devote her time to the relief of her people. They must go to war which is in its fifth year.

"The Chinese are not a strange peole, fighting an unknown war. They are brave, too proud to press us, but they look to us with suffering hearts. Their cause of war is our cause. Their fight is our fight. They are our allies."

Bullet Riddled Sofa Case Mystifying To Authorities

The mystery which confronted Undersheriff William D. Woods, Deputy Carl T. Larsen and Captain Joseph Blake of the California Highway Patrol Tuesday night may well have been entitled "The Case of The Bullet Riddled Sofa."

When the officers answered a call to investigate a shooting in a house at Shaw's Hill on the Nevada City-Grass Valley Highway, they found a sofa had a half dozen bullet holes in it and about that many bullet holes in various parts of the living room.

Ernest Gastiansen, 25, a miner, who lived in the house with another miner and a woman, Hester Jacobs, 23, told the authorities Mrs. Jacobs and $100 he had cached in the house were missing.

Gastiansen told the officers he believed the woman's husband came to the house while he was at work and persuaded his wife to leave with him. Gustiansen said Mrs. Jacobs had intended to go to Reno to obtain a divorce. He, however, along with the officers are puzzled regarding the bullet riddled sofa and the bullet holes in the room.

BPWC To Present Skit At War Bond Rally On May 20th

.... By DOROTHY K. ADAMS

Isabel Hefelfinger, newly installed president of the Nevada City Business and Professional Womens Club presided over her first business meeting at the National Hotel last evening.

Many plans are being made for the coming year and to start the ball rolling the club will present a skit as part of the entertainment for the War Bond Rally to be held on May 20 at the Elks Hall.

The skit to be presented, written by Maudie Shaw, is of a patriotic nature with members representing the different branches of the service and the people behind the scenes who are helping to win this war.

In cooperation with the Rice Bowl parade on June 6 in Grass Valley, it was unanimously decided to represent the club with a float.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Hefelfinger urgently requested that every member attend the dinner meeting on May 27 at the National Hotel. It was announced that many surprises will be in store for those who attend, but the nature of the evening is to be kept a dark secret.

OPERATED UPON IN S. F.

Mrs. David Ralston, wife of Reverend Ralston, pastor of the Nevada City Methodist Church, is recovering in a San Francisco hospital from an operation underwent earlier in the week.

Caught in the Riffles

You have been living in Nevada City fo a long time if you can remember when:

Hook Johnson was the town's only negro and used to chagrin the local Irish colony by strutting on Saint Patrick's Day with a flowing green tie. . . When He's Inn, operated by John Donnelly was a flash in the pan during the days of the Noble Experiment . . . When the window of a Broad Street millinery store was pasted with hand written protests of its fiery proprietor. . . . When Yellow Bean, the Chinese peddler, chased the annoying lads with his butcher knife. . . When the National Hotel Bar was the rendezvous of the mining profession and it dining room featured ham 'an for a quarter. . . . When three raps on the door and a mysterious word got you a flash of panther steam at a Plaza address. . . When Henry Lane lost a corpse-filled casket out of his horse drawn hack going up Boulder Street . . . When a bucket of suds was a dime at Hieronimus' Brewery on Sacramento Street. . . . When the barefooted squaws came to town to be befriended by J. J. Jackson Sr. . . . When the son of a prominent family planted a donkey in the office of the grammar school principal on Hallowe'en Eve. When Texas Tommy ran the Palace—and the boys in the back room in one mad moment threw the player piano into Deer Creek—Cost them a pretty penny too. Ah, Those were the good old days!

Newcomers to the Nevada City area have expressed amazement at the beauty of the Scotch Broom, which is now in full blossom in this area and in the North San Juan district.

Scotch Broom is looked upon somewhat as a nuisance by Nevada Cityans but those who see the bright yellow bush in full bloom for the first time find it quite a beautiful treat for the eyes.

One of our Nevada City residents away from home during the April registration of 45-65 year-olds, had a hard time convincing the registratian authorities that Nevada City was in California. They had, very apparently, never heard of the town. Perhaps if they will read the newspapers a little more thoroughly in which the exploits of Nevada City men and women are featured, they may learn this little city, one of the oldest in California, has contributed over its nearly century old existence, many famed men and women who have served their country with conspicious courage and intelligence.

War's spot light quite frequently turns on sons and daughters of Nevada City. First Fred Searls, Jr. on one of the WPB committees in Washington, is rated by the weekly, Time, as one of the outstanding executives who work with Donald Nelson. Next Bill Bennett, son of the Ellsworth Bennetts of this city, fights a winning air battle with Japs in the vicinity of Port Moresby, New Guinea. The United Press recounts his exploits. A few days later we get the news from Washington that Capt. Allan Chapman, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Chapman of Nevada City, has been called to Washington to assist, in the office of General Arnold, air chief of U. S. forces, in reducing air training accidents. Hard on the heels of this honor to one of Nevada City's sons, comes an Associated Press story from Northern Ireland describing the role Nancy Mott Jones, daughter of Judge and Mrs. George L. Jones, plays in the Red Cross services to the Yanks who have arrived in Ulster.

Quite aside from the satisfaction derived from the fact that men and women, to use a Chamber of Commerce phrase, are putting Nevada City on the map, is a deep feeling of pride that they are Nevada City's representatives at several battle fronts in the greatest war of all time.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hoge, Jr., who now reside in the bay area, visited with relatives here during the weekend.

THE NEWSPAPERS' BURDEN

Thousands of mimeographed communications are being poured out by American governments, chiefly state and federal, addressed to all newspaper editors, pleading the great urgency for skilled and semi-skilled help in these government agencies.

A news-editor told me recently that it takes two hours of his time each day to open and throw these communications in the wastebasket. As a publisher myself I know that this statement is not greatly exaggerated.

All publishers of newspapers, large and small, are anxious to aid the war effort in any way possible. They are giving many hundreds of columns to civilian defense publicity, to war savings bonds, to the Red Cross and all such agencies that are allied with the military problem. But publishers can't afford to use pages of space for what is in reality classified advertising—the demand for stenographers, for technicians of all kinds, for the million and one things that the governments lack in this emergency.

All these requests, these demands on newspapers, are also made in a routine manner on the state and federal employment services. Our employment service in California is engaged in filling thousands of such requests. Appeals for personnel should go to the employment services and not to the newspapers. Yet, the newspaper editors and publishers are flooded with appeals to publish free what is in reality advertising copy.

Careful survey of the newspaper field, small and large, fails to reveal any newspaper that is publishing these requests. As a publisher, and as a member of the employment commission, I say that one of two things should be done—either pay for all of these requests in the regular manner, or cease sending them to newspapers and concntrate on the real and actual clearinghouse—the employment services.

In 1917-18, under direction of George Creel as head of the nation's public information bureau, newspapers were provided with liberal space in paid advertising. Creel attributed much of the success of liberty and victory loans to the paid advertising campaign. Newspapers are giving freely of space to present-day bond selling, but they cannot devote such space as was used in the first world war unless paid for it. All newspapers, especially in the smaller classifications, are suffering seriously at the present time because of curtailment of many sources of advertising—the automobile industry, privately-owned public utilities, farm machinery, and many of the great food concerns.

Only one national campaign so far has reached the public press in the form of paid advertising. This was a recruiting campaign for the navy in the first part of this year, ordered by Secretary Knox, himself a newspaperman and well acquainted with the power of mass newspaper advertising. He has made the statement that this campaign was a success.

I am writing at this time for two reasons—first, to point out that newspapers cannot possibly carry the load that government seems to believe they should carry; and second, that much of the appeal for personnel is already being cared for through employment services. If the war is to be successfully publicized, I tell all that it must come through greater revenue from national sources to newspapers of recognized general circulation.—The Covina Argus.

BACKING FOR WARREN

Justus Craemer, president of the state railroad commission, announces he will not be a candidate for governor this year and throws his support to Earl F. Warren, attorney general. Warren has already announced as a nonpartisan candidate who will run on both the Democratic and Republican tickets.

The Craemer withdrawal is good sportsmanship on the part of the Orange publisher and typical of the way he has always behaved in state politics. He knows that this is a war year, when California must choose a leader who can unite all the citizens in the great struggle that lies ahead. While Craemer himself has been a topnotch possibility as a gubernatorial candidate, he knows that Warren is the more logical leader and he knows that Warren must be given the whole-hearted support of all victory-minded citizens in order to win out against the political ring that is now in control of the state government.

In his withdrawal from the gubernatorial race Craemer says: "As a citizen, my foremost interest is in the success of our war effort. That effort will be most effectively advanced by placing strong, reliable men in positions of responsibility. Mr. Warren is such a man, and it is in the public interest that we unite behind him."

Craemer in supporting Warren announces that he intends to be an advocate of principles rather than a candidate. "It is my purpose," he says, "to seek the restoration of dignity, of efficiency, of economy and of honesty in state government because these things are everlastingly right and are inseparable from a successful prosecution of war."

If Craemer's words register with every voter, as they should, Warren will be elected in the primary in August and California will be assured of a strong governor during the remaining years of the war.

Propety tax levies in Nevada County for the present year are up 21 per cent over levies for 1938-39, a study of tax levies in California counties, made public today by California Taxpayers association shows. Tax levies by the county, cities, school and other districts in the county totalled $401,326 in 1938-39 and amounted to $485,614 for the present year. These figures do not include levies for special districts which do not report centrally.

Levies by the cities in the county which total $36,102 for 1941-42, are up from the $34,733 levied in 1938-39. The size of next year's local property tax levies in the county depends on the local government budgets now in process of being set up in the county, cities, and districts, the association pointed out.

STATE CLAMPS DOWN ON LARGE PORTION OF HIGHWAY WORK

Director of Public Works Frank W. Clark announces the war emergency will prevent the construction of any major portions of state highway which are not an integral part of the strategic network as defined by army and navy officials.

Whether that means the Bear Valley project, which was scheduled to have been started this summer, will be abandoned for the duration is not yet known here.

Secretary H. F. Sofge of the local chamber of commerce intends to find out.

Clark said the War Production Board has requested deferment for the duration of all highway construction which is not essential directly or indirectly to the successful prosecution of the war and which involves the utilization of labor, material or construction plants urgently needed in the war effort.

All new highway under construction costing more than $5,000 will be prohibited unless an oder is obtained from the board specifically authorizing each individual project.

SONNY MOORE AND HIS ANIMALS

Sonny Moore, 18, of Grass Valley, is on his way to national fame with his animal acts, which are familiar to Nevada Countyans.

Moore is now in Connecticut, where his show is one of the outstanding animal acts in Gene Autry's Western Traveling Show

Sonny Moore's Animal Act Now Performing In East With Gene Autry

Sonny Moore, with his famous animal acts familiar to fair patrons, is now on his way to national fame.

The Grass Valley youth, 18, is performing in Gene Autry's Western Traveling Show, which is touring the east at the present. Sonny's part of the show is one of his oustanding animal acts. "Bees Wax, the Taxi Meter Mule."

Sonny began his career with Candy, a discarded circus horse too hard for anyone to handle. In Grass Valley several years ago Sonny lost Candy when the animal fell and pierced its chest on a cultivator handle in its barn.

Shortly before the death of Candy, Sonny had acquired a Shetland pony, named Major. Sonny continued his animal training act with Major and a little white and tan curly dog with just a stub of a tail. The dog was named Stubby.

In 1938 Sonny presented his act before the animal meeting of the Western Fairs Association and he was acclaimed a young Barnum.

He booked several fairs that season but Sonny became ambitious for a big act. He started acquiring stray dogs, trained them, then heard that Edna Curtiss was going to retire. Now Sonny, through a bank loan, became owner of Bees Wax, the celebrated mule, and another pony. Back to Chicago he went to bring out his new troupe with all the props which gave him an act of three small acts so he could qualify for any engagement. Since that time he has played the whole season on the coast and into Montana. Late this summer after the Autry show closes, Sonny is booked for theatre engagements in the middle west and then on to Montana for a six weeks' on the fair circuit. Dwight, Sonny's brother, is the agent, publicity and prop man for the "Sonny Moore Troupe."

WHICH SHALL BE GOERNOR? OLSON OR EARL WARREN

By CLEM WHITAKER

"I will not be a candidate against Mr. Warren for the Republican nomination, but will cordially support him!"

With that unequivocal declaration Justus Craemer, Orange publisher and president of the powerful State Railroad Commission, ended all speculation this week as to his political intentions and virtually cleared the field for Attorney General Earl Warren to take the GOP nomination for governor at the August primary with out serious opposition.

Said Mr. Craemer:

"As a citizen, I am first of all interested in the success of our war effort. I believe that effort will be advanced by placing strong, reliable men in positions of responsibility. I consider Mr. Warren such a man and I believe it is in the public interest that we unite behind him. Therefore, I will not be a candidate against Mr. Warren for the Republican nomination, but will cordially support him.

"Nor will I be a candidate for Lieutenant Governor, as has been frequently suggested. I feel that I can be of more service to my state in the coming campaign as an advocate of principles than as a candidate. I will seek the restoration of dignity, of efficiency, of economy and of honesty in state government, because these things are everlastingly right and are inseparable from a successful prosecution of the war."

Mr. Craemer's statement was interpreted in political circles as a generous gesture which will greatly strengthen Mr. Warren's campaign. One of the most popular publishers in the state, with scores of newspapers urging his candidacy, and with a large personal following would have been a formidable candidate had he chosen to run, and his decision to throw his support behinnd Mr. Warren greatly enchances the latter's chances of conducting a successful, non-partisan campaign. Practically it will probably have the effect of narrowing the fight down to two principal contenders. Mr. Warren and Governor Olson, with increasing likelihood that Wallace Ware and Roger Jessup will withdraw from the gubernatorial battle. That would leave Mr. Warren unopposed on the Republican side—and free to carry the fight to Olson in the primary.

The formal entry of James Rolph, son of the late Governor Rolph, into the campaign for Lieutenant Governor has also sharpened interest in that contest, but it is considered likely that several other candidates will announce before the final filing date on June 20.

10% OF INCOME IS OUR QUOTA IN WAR BONDS

SAND ON THE AXIS

News in Verse May 2 over KJBS
Written by Harley M. Leete, Jr.

Treasury announces war bond drive,
The greatest since last war.
Government asks us all to strive,
To buy ten per cent or more.

Ten per cent of your monthly wage,
Will help to win the fight.
Your response shall be a valid gauge,
Of you will to help the Right!

It isn't asking, much, you know.
It's not a gift at all.
They're savings bonds and yet they go,
To effect the Axis fall.

It's an investment safe as ever you'll find.
With interest higher than most.
That will help our war machines to grind,
The Axis to fine compost.

You who've been wishing that you could aid,
And saying so out loud.
For you this chance is tailor made—
Just join the buying crowd.

There's a quota for each city and state,
Each quota helps to seal.
The rushing, ominous, dreadful fate,
Which awaits Herr Hitler's deal.

Your quota, friend, is ten per cent.
That's all you need remember.
And that the money will be sent,
To quench Fascists, flame and ember.

Now's the time to do your part.
The boys in service do.
No one can be so faint of heart,
As to believe we won't win through.

Uncle Sam's the safest bet,
The surest man to win.
Put all the cash that you can get,
On the winner, coming in!

JAY C. COUGHLAN ANNOUNCES SELF FOR REELECTION

Jay C. Coughlan, supervisor of the Third District, which includes Bloomfield, Washington and Eureka townships, which he has successfully served since his appointment by Governor Frank F. Merriam in 1933 and was subsequently elected in 1934, is asking reelection at the hands of the voters of his district.

He is a native of the district which he represents and knows it from end to end. It extends east and west from Bridgeport township to Meadowlake township. It is a country of rough topography, sparsely settled, but nevertheless needed raods, and Supervisor Coughlan has attended to that.

His roads are in the best of condition, a portion including the important Foote road leading to Alleghany. This road is in first class condition and carries much travel.

Recently Coughlan has completed an important improvement in this road, west of North Columbia, near what is known as the Loard Fill. This was for a considerable distance a one way stretch of road, but it has been widened where it crosses the fill to make it safe for traffic.

Another important road in his district is the road leading from the Tahoe Ukiah highway to the little town of Washington. This has heretofore been steep and narrow. It is now of reduced gradient and much wider and safer to travel.

As a member of the Board of Supervisors Supervisor Coughlan has been conservative, but progressive.

He has spent his entire life in the district, with the exception of the time he was overseas as a member of the American Expeditionary Forces.

He promises, if elected, to conduct the affairs of the office in the same manner which he has followed during the time he has held the office.

FORESTRY BOARD SEEKS LAND FOR POST-WAR USE

SACRAMENTO, May 14.—(UP)—The State Board of Forestry has requested State Forester M. B. Pratt to assign one of his foresters to make a survey and report on availability of suitable forest areas for purchase by the state.

The board recommended that since planning of rehabilitation work requires considerable time, purchase be undertaken during the coming biennium.

A resolution adopted by the board outlined the purposes of state forests as follows:

1 To rehabilitate potentially productive timberland which is not likely to be reforested naturally or by private owners.

2 To provide work areas for jobless men during the post war adjustment period.

3 To help stabilize local communities and continue local industries and payrolls, and develop a method whereby county governments will be reimbursed for their losses when such land is removed from tax rolls.

4 To develop the technological skill and proficiency of the state's forestry staff.

The board requested that the survey and report on availability of the lands for purchase be presented at its September meeting in Bekeley.

CARLSON, COUNTY SCHOOL HEAD, TO SEEK REELECTION

Walter A. Carlson, county superintendent of schools, announces that he will be a candidate for re-election at the August primaries. He submits his name to the electorate backed by years of experience as an educator.

Superintendent Carlson, is a graduate of Humboldt State College of Arcata, California. His teaching credentials are an elementary life diploma, a junior high credential, and a life administration credential. Carlson's first teaching experience was in the rural schools and 17 years ago he came to Nevada City, first as a teacher and later as principal of the Nevada City Elementary School. He has been absent from teaching only during World War service, and after his honorable discharge from the army, he returned to teaching resolved to make that profession his life work.

Few people realize the large amount of clerical and administrative work done in the office of superintendent of schools in addition to the many professional activities which are required of that official. Many additional duties have been placed on the superintendent through the participation of the schools in various war activities—the salvaging of essential materials, the planting of victory gardens, the purchase of war savings stamps, the registration for sugar rationing.

Superintendent Carlson is well acquainted with the problems of his teachers, particularly in the rural field. During his term of office he has employed a competent supervisor of instruction and health nurse to work directly with the teachers and pupils and to assist them in their work. Monthly meeting of the rural teachers are held which enables them to discuss their problems and to become better acquainted.

Savings for the districts and the teachers have been effected by group policies for state compensation insurance for the districts, health and accident insurance for teachers and by a county wide purchase of standardized school supplies— all of these are benefits to the schools, but they mean additional work for the superintendent's office.

During his term of office Superintendent Carlson has endeavored to work for the best interests of his schools, and if reelected he promises to give the same careful attention to the duties of his office.

WARREN ODELL ASKS REELECTION AS SUPERVISOR

Supervisor Warren Odell of the fourth Nevada County district, which embraces Rough and Ready and Brideport townships, announces that he will be a candidate for reelection. He has served the district for the past four years with a remarkable degree of success.

The incumbent supervisor needs no introduction to the people of his district for he knows virtually every one of them by name. He has resided in the Clear Creek section for a great many years, and engaged in farming.

In offering his name for approval of the voters, Supervisor Odell points to accomplishments with in the district in the past four years.

He has instituted a long-range program of road improvement, with the idea of bringing the standard of roads in his district up as near as possible to that of permanent highways. Although funds available do not permit extensive road building all over the many miles of his district, some of that type of work is done each year, and all roads are maintained to the best degree consistent with funds available.

Notable improvements have been made, in some instances with assistance of the WPA on the Newtown-Beckman Hill road, McCourtney road, Indian Springs, Spenceville and the French Corral roads. Improvements have also been made on the Tyler road. In general, transportation over roads in his district has been better than at any time for decades.

In addition to his duties as road builder, Warren Odell has proved to be a good executive on the county's governing body, the board of supervisors.

In offering his candidacy, Odell stated that it has always been his policy to keep in mind the fact that it is the taxpayers' money the supervisors are spending, and he therefore insists on getting a dollar in value for every dollar expended, thus assuring the people of his district their hard earned dollars are bringing them a fair return.

PATRIOTIC SERVICES TO BE HELD SUNDAY AT METHODIST CHURCH

The Sunday service at the Methodist Church will be a patriotic service, recommended by President Roosevelt.

Commander Howard Bennetts of Banner Mountain Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will deliver an address, "I Am An American." The VFW, American Legion and Canadian War Veterans are cooperating in holding the patriotic service.

Patriotic songs will be sung by the choir. The congregation will join in the singing of "My Country Tis of Thee." and "O Beautiful For Spacious Skies." Bill Tobiassen and Jack A. Warren, choir director, will sing solos.

The service will start at 11 a. m. and Rev. David Ralston invites all Nevada Cityans to attend.

SEARCH ABANDONED FOR MISSING BLUE CANYON FISHERMAN

Tahoe National Forest and Placer County officers have abandoned a search for Cleo Harris 25, Blue Canyon emergency airplane landing field employee, who went fishing in Fulda Flat, near Emigrant Gap, Saturday and did not return.

The searchers found no trace of Harris and it is the belief of Ranger John R. Hodgson, who led the searching party, that the fisherman plunged into one of the deep chasms along Fulda Creek.

Harris, who had been working at the Blue Canyon airport for a month, was unfamiliar with the district.

A three foot fall of snow during the weekend obliterated all tracks.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE This is the picture everyone wants to see. An exciting romantic comedy keyed to an ever mounting tempo of suspense. Carole Lombard, in her greatest role and sadly her last one. Jack Benny at his best in a surprisingly different comic situation. Here is a Lubitsch picture—brilliant in its acting—spectacular in its scope.
